THE PANTHER

FOREWORD

In presenting to you the 1963 PANTHER the senior class of Hesperia High School would like to thank the following people: our advertisers, for without their help this book would be impossible, Powell Studios of Detroit, for without their co-operation our pictures would not have arrived in time to make our necessary deadlines, and the American Yearbook Company, our publisher who helped us in so many ways.

We hope you enjoy this edition of the PANTHER as much as we have enjoyed putting it together.

DEDICATION

We, the Senior Class of 1963, dedicate our yearbook, THE PANTHER, to Mr. Almon Gilbert. He has been helpful, understanding, courteous, friendly, and most of all, patient with us throughout our high school years.

A typical scene at 8:00 a.m.

The background features a large, abstract graphic design. It consists of several overlapping geometric shapes: a large light gray triangle pointing upwards and to the right, a smaller black triangle pointing upwards and to the left, and a dark gray triangle pointing downwards and to the right. A thin black line extends from the bottom left towards the center. In the bottom right corner, there is a large, thin black circle that is partially cut off by the edge of the frame. The overall composition is minimalist and modern.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL RULES HESPERIA SCHOOL UNSAFE: 364 STUDENTS ORDERED HOME--"The state fire marshal's office sent the entire student body on vacation December 5, 1962 when State Police Detective William Cram presented to the school board a fire marshal's order to abandon the two-story concrete-block high school, built in 1930.

An engineer had checked the building and said the school was in such bad shape that he expected a building failure in the near future. Other surveys backed up the fears that the building was unsafe, although voters rejected a bond issue to finance a new high school unit in the fall.

Visits by the fire marshal brought 12 recommendations for action to be met before the building could be put back in use. Cracks in every room; cracks from foundation to roof and a two-inch separation between the floor and wall on the second story prompted action from the state fire marshal's office. Detective Cram said, "The south wall is bowed and there is a crack in it from foundation to parapet."

The staff met with both the superintendent and principal to come up with temporary means to carry on school.

*CONDENMED BUILDING
DEC. 5, 1962*

HESPERIA STUDENTS GO BACK TO SCHOOL--Students of Hesperia High School went back to class after a hurried move from their condemned junior-senior high school building.

Classes resumed on a half-day split schedule on Friday, December 8, with the grades seven through twelve taking up classrooms in the school system's elementary buildings, cafeteria, and gymnasium.

Desks, chairs, typewriters, books and all the varied equipment needed to operate a school day were moved into other buildings as the first winter storm raged.

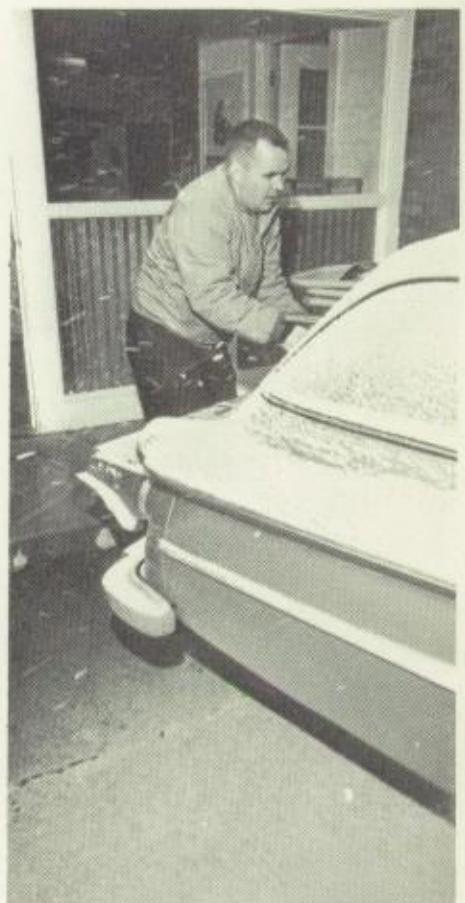

Despite the chilling weather, the teachers who worked throughout the day still smiled and talked cheerfully during brief coffee breaks. In addition to the moving, the staff and school officials had a maze of jumbled classes to unscramble and athletic programs to reschedule.

At one point, the busy instructors remembered it was the birthday of Mrs. Edwin Adams and gave her a rousing "Happy Birthday" over steaming cups of coffee. Someone remembered that it was almost eight years to the day that the old gym burned down in below-zero weather.

As the work went on the superintendent announced that the hot lunch program would have to be discontinued. The cafeteria had to be used for senior high school students in the morning and the furniture shifted for a kindergarten class in the afternoon.

The new schedule meant double bus runs. High school students were picked up before daylight and the elementary students were let off after dark.

People actually thought that the school board and the superintendent got together with the state fire marshal to have the school condemned.

Mr. Gustine removes furniture from the elementary building.

Mr. Gilbert, Mr. Benjamin, & Mr. Wyns carry tables from the condemned building to the junior high building.

A typical staff meeting.

CREED

I believe in the future of Farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds—achievements won by the present and past generations of Farmers; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come up to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of farm life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of organized farmers to serve our own and the public interest in marketing the product of our toil. I believe we can safeguard those rights against practices and policies that are unfair.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so—for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.
